

Take Call

(Allow them to introduce themselves)
Brilliant, REALLY pleased you called as like yourself, I am also trying to get a little research done. So, can I ask you please, how often do you make calls to telephone based adult stories - or sex lines if you will ?

You don't call them. Thank you, and so we can make sure we have a representative section of the market place, can you please confirm if you identify as gay, straight, transgender, transsexual, pan sexual, bi-sexual, bestial or "other"

Do they call - or are they refusing to answer?

Lovely, Thank you, one of the very few honest ones we have and so we can make sure we have a representative section of the market place, would you please confirm if you identify as gay, straight, transgender, transsexual, pan sexual, bi-sexual, bestial or "other"

Ok then, taking into account prices from as little as 10p per minute through to £1.50 a minute, how much does price play a factor in choosing not to engage in audio erotica.

But this is important market research and you have been specially chosen to answer questions about your sexual interests, masturbatory habits and willingness to call premium rate stories. If you could answer the few questions I have it would be very useful

Taking into account prices from as little as 10p per minute through to £1.50 a minute, how much does price play a factor in which adult story you choose to listen too.

Ok, I hear you, thank you, so when you masturbate, what forms of assistance or imagery do you use to maintain an adequate sexual experience? For example, books, magazines, internet pornography, trophies of previous partners, fur....

Do they query "why specially chosen", agree or disagree to proceed?

Ok, thank you, so when you call these lines to masturbate, what other forms of assistance or imagery do you use to maintain an adequate sexual experience? For example, books, magazines, internet pornography, trophies of previous partners, fur....

If they claim not to masturbate

Because professional research and marketing people such as yourself understand the importance and significance that market research can make to everyone - and will appreciate that a candid answer will ultimately benefit yourself as goods and services evolve to reflect your specific preferences. I appreciate though that some people find such questions difficult....

If price wasn't an issue, what could be done to encourage you to dial adult erotica from time to time?

Ok, is this a phobia of masturbation, simple denial - or a general dislike of sex in all forms?
I see - and how often do you suspect that your partner masturbates to counterbalance the lack of a fulfilling sexual relationship with yourself - and do you know if this involves telephone based adult erotica?

No Partner

Do they claim No Partner, Partner DOES wank or partner DOESN'T wank?

Partner Wanks

Partner does NOT wank

Ok, thank you, so just to clarify, you are telling me you neither have a partner NOR masturbate?
So when you wake in the morning with damp or stiff sheets, do you regret not being more expressive

Ok, so you don't think they masturbate - do you presume they must be having an affair instead - or do you hope that they just lack a typical sexual appetite - so occasional sex with one partner, no affairs, no masturbation and no other forms of titillation whatsoever?

Ok, thank you. Do you think your partner would be prepared to answer our short questionnaire about telephone based adult erotica - could you provide their number for us?
Ok, well thank you.

Lastly, is there anything that could be done to encourage you to dial adult erotica and see if you might enjoy masturbation when listening to adult based pre-recorded stories?

Ok, thank you for that, so to clarify, do you genuinely believe that your partner only has sexual activity to the point of orgasm when involved with yourself?

Finally, What could be done to encourage you to dial adult erotica on a more regular basis?

That concludes our research questions for the day thank-you and we really appreciate your time - HANGUP>